

EY Malta

Msida, Malta

Based on the guidelines for a 'Global EY Workplace of the Future', a contemporary office concept was developed that breaks with tradition, integrating areas for chatting, relaxing or eating as well as individual and team workspaces. Grey, black and yellow – colours that shape the company's corporate identity – figure prominently in the product configurations. One of the aims was to increase the number of workplaces in the available space while simultaneously improving the quality of the work environment. Through integration of diverse products from the Alcove Sofa family, lively areas were created offering various options for private retreat as well as group meetings. Additional workspaces are available on the roof terrace, which can also be used for office events.
